

I am appalled at
Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to
air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election.

That media,
especially AM radio,
is now completely at
the beck and call of the Bush administration is a clear example of the dangers of media
consolidation.

We should revive the Fairness Doctrine,
and if Sinclair
insists on airing
partisan programming
on one side, it
should be forced to
air the other side
in a commensurate
time frame (i.e., not at 4 a.m.).

We need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them. The airwaves belong to all of us, and
should not be used for one-sided
partisan efforts.
